

2021 Exons Festival Cancelled

Following a careful risk assessment and advice from Steven Brown, Devon's director of public health, we have very sadly decided not to proceed with plans for an Exons Festival this year, especially bearing in mind the fact that most of the singers rely on the generosity of host families during the week and a team of wonderful volunteers to provide them with supper. In the meantime, Exons are still hoping to be able to meet up for a concert which they can then record or stream for us and they very much look forward to a great festival in Tavistock in 2022. If anybody would like to be added to the list of hosts for next year, or help with publicity please don't hesitate to contact me.
